Literacy Packet

How to Use this Packet

My goal is to make learning at home as EASY as possible.

Homeschooling doesn't have to be a big complex thing. During this time of no school, I urge you not to stress about your child falling behind academically. We are all in this together right now. The most important thing you can do with your child is to spend time with them making memories. Read books, play games, do simple science experiments, or find art projects to do together.

I created this packet to help give some structure to your day. This packet includes booklets and activities focused on these fairy tales and nursery rhymes:

- Jack and the Beanstalk
- Little Red Riding Hood
- The Little Red Hen
- The Three Little Pigs
- Goldilocks and the Three Bears
- Mary Had a Little Lamb
- Jack and Jill
- The Itsy Bitsy Spider
- Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star
- Hickory Dickory Dock
- Little Miss Muffet
- Row, Row, Row Your Boat
- Humpty Dumpty
- Hey Diddle Diddle
- Baa, Baa Black Sheep

The Activities

Story Booklets

Each story has a printable booklet. You can either read the story to your child or have them read it to you. It depends on their reading level. To put together the booklets, just cut on the dotted lines, place the pages in order, and staple on the side. After reading, ask your child questions about the story to check their comprehension.

Sequencing Cards

Use the picture cards to have your child retell the story to you. Have them put the cards in sequential order.

Syllable Cards

Each story has 6 syllable cards. Have your child say the word and circle the number of syllables it has.

Phonemic Awareness/Sounds

Some of the stories have a worksheet that asks the child to write the beginning, middle, or ending sound in words. One of the stories asks the child to choose the blend or digraph the picture starts with (i.e.: straw starts with 'st').

Rhyming Words

A few stories ask the child to write words that rhyme with the picture. (i.e.: write words that rhyme with 'pig') The words can be nonsense words.

The Activities

Mazes

Some stories have printable mazes. These are just for fun!

Cut and Paste

Cut out the picture cards at the bottom of the page. Read the sentences to your child. Have them find the picture for each sentence and glue it in the square.

Extra Activities

- Creative Writing – give your child paper and time to write a story. You can give them a prompt to help them get started.
- Art Projects – create a craft or art project to go along with the stories.
- Sensory Activities – sensory play is very important for young children. Find lots of sensory ideas here: <https://teachingmama.org/100-sensory-play-ideas/>
- YouTube – find the nursery rhymes or fairy tales on YouTube. It's a great way to listen to someone read the story, hear another version of the story, or learn the nursery rhyme with a fun song.
- Sight Words – practice reading sight words with a variety of activities found here: <https://teachingmama.org/sight-word-resources/>

Jack and the Beanstalk

© teachingmama.org

Jack was a young, poor boy who lived with his widowed mother and a dairy cow, on a farm.

The cow's milk was their source of income. When the cow stopped making milk, Jack's mother asked him to sell the cow at the market.

On his way there, Jack met a man who offered to trade him magic beans for his cow. He decided to trade the cow for the magic beans.

When he told his mom, she became angry. She threw the beans on the ground and sent him to bed without dinner.

During the night, the magic beans grew into a huge beanstalk outside of Jack's window.

The next morning, Jack climbed the beanstalk. He found a castle in the sky and snuck inside.

In the castle, there lived a giant.
He smelled Jack and sang this song:
“Fee-fi-fo-fum! I smell the blood of an English man!
Be he alive, or be he dead, I’ll grind his bones to make my bread.”

Jack saw the giant had a big bag of gold.
When the giant fell asleep, Jack stole the bag of gold.

He rushed down the beanstalk to show his mother the gold. She was happy because this was the gold the giant had stolen from his father years ago.

His mom told him to never return to the beanstalk, because the giant was dangerous.

But when the money began to run out, he returned again. This time he took a hen that laid golden eggs.

Jack was curious what else he could find, so he climbed the beanstalk again. He saw the giant with a magic harp. This harp could play music all by itself.

When the giant fell asleep, Jack crept up to get the harp. But when he picked it up, it started playing music and woke up the giant!

The giant chased Jack down the beanstalk.
When he got to the bottom, Jack found his axe and chopped down the beanstalk.

The beanstalk fell with the giant.
Jack and his mother lived happily ever after.

Jack lived with his mother & cow.

The cow stopped making milk, so Jack went to sell it.

Jack traded the cow for magic beans.

The mother was angry and threw out the beans.

In the night, the beans grew into a giant beanstalk.

Jack climbed up the beanstalk.

He saw a giant living in a castle.

Jack stole the bag of gold.

His mom was happy about the gold.

He took the hen that laid golden eggs.

He took the magic harp, but it woke up the giant.

Jack chopped down the beanstalk with an axe.

Little Red Riding Hood

© teachingmama.org

Once upon a time, there there was a girl named Little Red Riding Hood. She always wore a red cloak.

One morning, she asked her mother if she could visit her grandmother. Her mother packed her a basket and sent her to grandmother's house.

Her mom told her to go straight to her house and not dawdle in the forest or talk to strangers. Little Red Riding Hood promised to be careful.

But when she got to the forest, she was distracted and started picking flowers, watching butterflies, and playing.

She was so distracted, she didn't notice a big shadow behind her. Suddenly a wolf appeared beside her.

“What are you doing out here, little girl?”
the wolf asked.

“I’m on my way to see my grandma who lives in the forest, near the brook.” Little Red Riding Hood said.

She realized how late she was, so she left the wolf and rushed down the path to grandma’s house.

In the meantime, the wolf took a shortcut.

The wolf got to grandma's house first and knocked. Grandma thought it was Little Red Riding Hood, so she invited him in. Before she could say anything, the wolf gobbled her up!

When Little Red Riding Hood entered the cottage, she barely recognized her grandmother.

“Grandmother! Your voice sounds different. Is something wrong?” she asked.

“Oh, I just have a cold,” squeaked the wolf.

“But grandmother! What big ears you have,” said Little Red Riding Hood as she came closer to the bed.

“The better to hear you with, my dear,” said the wolf.

“But grandmother! What big eyes you have!”

“The better to see you with, my dear,” said the wolf.

“But grandmother! What big teeth you have,” Little Red Riding Hood said with her voice shaking.

“The better to eat you with, my dear,” roared the wolf and he leapt out of the bed and chased her.

Just then, she realized this was not her grandmother, but a hungry wolf! She cried loudly for help. A woodsman who was chopping logs nearby heard her cry and ran to help her.

He grabbed the wolf and made him spit out the poor grandmother.

“Oh grandma, I was so scared!” sobbed Little Red Riding Hood, “I’ll never speak to strangers or dawdle in the forest again.”

The woodsman knocked out the wolf and carried him deep into the forest, where he wouldn't bother people any longer.

Little Red Riding Hood and her grandmother were never bothered by the wolf again and lived happily ever after.

Little Red Riding Hood wanted to visit her grandma.

Her mom packed a picnic basket and told her not to dawdle.

She got distracted and didn't notice the wolf next to her.

She told the wolf she was going to her grandmother's in the forest, near the brook.

She rushed to grandmother's house, but the wolf took a shortcut.

The wolf gobbled up the grandmother.

The wolf pretended to be the grandmother in bed when Little Red Riding Hood came.

When Little Red Riding Hood saw it was the wolf, she cried for help. A woodsman heard her and came.

The wolf spit out the grandmother and Little Red Riding Hood promised to never dawdle.

He knocked the wolf out and took him deep into the forest.

They were never bothered again and lived happily ever after.

The Little Red Hen

© teachingmama.org

Once upon a time, there there was a little red hen who lived on a farm. She was friends with a lazy dog, a sleepy cat, and a noisy yellow duck.

One day, the little red hen found some seeds on the ground. She had an idea!
She would plant the seeds.

The little red hen asked her friends, “Who will help me plant the seeds?”

“Not I,” barked the lazy dog.

“Not I,” purred the sleepy cat.

“Not I,” quacked the noisy yellow duck.

“Then I will,” said the little red hen.

So the little red hen planted the seeds all by herself.

When the seeds had grown, the little red hen asked her friends, "Who will help me cut the wheat?"

"Not I," barked the lazy dog.

"Not I," purred the sleepy cat.

"Not I," quacked the noisy yellow duck.

"Then I will," said the little red hen.

So the little red hen cut the wheat all by herself.

When the wheat was cut, the little red hen asked her friends, "Who will help me take the wheat to the mill to be ground into flour?"

"Not I," barked the lazy dog.

"Not I," purred the sleepy cat.

"Not I," quacked the noisy yellow duck.

"Then I will," said the little red hen.

So the little red hen brought the wheat to the mill.
After it was ground into flour, she carried the sack back to the farm.

The tired little red hen asked her friends, “Who will help me bake the bread?”
“Not I,” barked the lazy dog.
“Not I,” purred the sleepy cat.
“Not I,” quacked the noisy yellow duck.
“Then I will,” said the little red hen.

So the little red hen baked the bread all by herself.
The bread smelled so good while it was baking and the animals all hoped to eat a piece.

When the bread was finished, the little red hen
asked her friends,

“Who will help me eat the bread?”

“I will,” barked the lazy dog.

“I will,” purred the sleepy cat.

“I will,” quacked the noisy yellow duck.

“No!” said the little red hen. “I will.
You did not help me plant the wheat.
You did not help me cut the wheat.
You did not help me take it to the mill.
You did not help me make my bread.
I did it all by myself!”

So the little red hen ate the bread all by herself.
That day, the animals learned a valuable lesson about teamwork and being a good friend. Never again did they let the little red hen do all the work by herself.

The little red hen lived on a farm with a lazy dog, a sleepy cat, and a noisy yellow duck.

The little red hen found seeds on the ground.

She asked her friends to help plant the seeds, but no one helped.

She asked her friends to help cut the wheat, but no one helped.

She asked her friends to help take the wheat to the mill to be ground into flour, but no one helped.

She asked her friends to help her make bread, but no one helped.

When the bread was baked, the little red hen didn't let anyone else eat it because they didn't help.

The animals learned a valuable lesson about teamwork and being a good friend.

The Three Little Pigs

© teachingmama.org

Once upon a time, there were three little pigs. Their mother sent them off into the world to seek their fortune.

The first pig went off and met a man with a bundle of straw. He bought the straw and built a house with it.

The second pig met a man with a bundle of sticks. He bought the sticks and built a house with it.

The third pig met a man with a load of bricks. He bought the bricks and built a house with them.

In the woods nearby, there was a wolf who liked to catch little pigs.

He first went to the house of straw.
He knocked on the door and said,
“Little pig, little pig, let me come in.”
The pig answered, “Not by the hair of my chinny chin chin in.”

“Then I’ll huff and I’ll puff and I’ll blow your house in!”
cried the wolf. So he huffed and puffed and blew his house in, and the little pig ran to his brother’s house made of sticks.

The wolf was really angry, so he followed him to the house of sticks.

He knocked on the door and said,
“Little pigs, little pigs, let me come in.”

The pigs answered, “Not by the hair of our chinny chin chins.”

“Then I’ll huff and I’ll puff and I’ll blow your house in!” cried the wolf. So he huffed and puffed and blew his house in, and the little pigs ran to their brother’s house made of bricks.

The wolf was very angry now. He ran after the pigs to the house of bricks.

He knocked on the door and said,
“Little pigs, little pigs, let me come in.”
The pigs answered, “Not by the hairs of our chinny chin chins.”

“Then I’ll huff and I’ll puff and I’ll blow your house in!”
cried the wolf. So he huffed and puffed, but nothing happened! The bricks wouldn’t move.

He decided to climb the house
and get in through the chimney.

So he climbed up and jumped down,
and fell right into a kettle of boiling water!
He sprang straight up the chimney and race away into the woods.

The three little pigs never saw him again and spent their time in the strong brick house. They lived happily ever after.

The three little pigs set off into the world to build their fortunes.

The first pig found a man selling straw. He bought a bundle and built a house with it.

The second pig found a man selling sticks. He bought a bundle and built a house with it.

The third pig found a man selling bricks. He bought it and built a house with them.

In the woods, there lived a wolf who liked to catch pigs.

He found the house of straw. He asked to come in, but the pig wouldn't let him. The wolf huffed and puffed and blew his house down.

The pig ran to his brother's house made of sticks. The wolf followed. He huffed and puffed and blew down the house of sticks.

The two little pigs ran to their brother's house of bricks while the wolf followed. He tried to blow it down, but it wouldn't move.

The wolf climbed down the chimney.

The wolf landed in a pot of boiling water.

The pigs lived in the brick house and lived happily ever after.

Goldilocks and the Three Bears

© teachingmama.org

Once upon a time, there was a little girl named Goldilocks. She went for a walk in the forest. She came upon a house. She knocked, but no one answered. So she just opened the door.

At the kitchen table, she found three bowls of porridge. Since Goldilocks was hungry, she decided to try the porridge.

Goldilocks tasted the porridge from the first bowl.
It was too hot!

She tried the second bowl. It was too cold.
Lastly, she tried the third bowl. It was just right, so she ate it all up!

After she had eaten the three bears' breakfast, she wanted to rest. So she walked into the living room and saw three chairs.

Goldilocks sat in the first blue chair, but it was too big! She tried the second chair, but it was also too big. So she tried the last and smallest chair. It felt right, but as she was sitting there, the chair broke into pieces!

Goldilocks was not very tired, so she went upstairs to the bedroom. She found three beds.

She tried the first bed, but it was too hard.
She tried the second bed, but it was too soft.
She tried the third bed and it was just right.
Goldilocks fell asleep!

As she was sleeping, the three bears came home. "Someone's been eating my porridge," growled Papa Bear. "Someone's been eating my porridge," said Mama Bear.

"Someone's been eating my porridge and they ate it all up!" cried the Baby Bear.

The three bears went into the living room.

"Someone's been sitting in my chair," growled Papa Bear. "Someone's been sitting in my chair," said Mama Bear.

"Someone's been sitting in my chair and they've broken it to pieces!" cried the Baby Bear.

They went into their bedroom.

"Someone's been sleeping in my bed," growled Papa Bear. "Someone's been sleeping in my bed," said Mama Bear.

"Someone's been sleeping in my bed and she's still there!" cried Baby Bear.

Just then, Goldilocks woke up and saw the three bears.

She was so surprised that she jumped up and ran out of the house and into the forest.

She never returned to the home and the bears lived happily ever after.

Goldilocks found a house in the forest and went inside.

She found three bowls of porridge. The first one was too hot, the second was too cold, but the third was just right.

She went into the living room and found three chairs. The first one was too big, the second was still too big, but the third one was just right.

After Goldilocks sat down, the chair broke into pieces.

She was so tired, she went upstairs to the bedroom. She found three beds.

The first bed was too hard. The second bed was too soft. The third bed was just right. Goldilocks fell asleep.

When the bears came home,
they noticed someone ate all of
Baby Bear's porridge.

Then they noticed someone had been sitting in their chairs.
And Baby Bear's chair was in pieces!

They went upstairs and noticed someone had been sleeping in their beds. Right then, Goldilocks woke up.

Goldilocks ran out of their home and into the forest. She never bothered the bears again.

Mary Had a Little Lamb

© teachingmama.org

Mary had a little lamb,
whose fleece was white as snow.

And everywhere that Mary went,
the lamb was sure to go.

It followed her to school one day,
which was against the rules.

It made the children laugh and play, to see a lamb at school.

And so the teacher turned it out,
but still it lingered near, and waited patiently about til Mary did appear.

“Why does the lamb love Mary so?” the eager children cry.

“Why, Mary loves the lamb, you know.” the teacher did reply.

Mary had a little lamb.

The lamb followed her
to school.

It made the children
laugh and play.

The teacher turned the lamb out.

The lamb waited for Mary.

The teacher says, "Mary loves the lamb."

Mary Had a Little Lamb

Mary had a little lamb,

To see a lamb at school.

And so the teacher turned it out,
Turned it out, turned it out,
And so the teacher turned it out,
But still it lingered near.

And waited patiently about,
Patiently about, patiently about,
And waited patiently about,
Till Mary did appear.

"Why does the lamb love Mary so?"
Love Mary so? Love Mary so?
"Why does the lamb love Mary so?"
The eager children cry.
